STATEMENT ON DELAWARE'S PARTICIPATION IN THE MULTI-STATE EFFORT TO REDUCE GLOBAL WARMING EMISSIONS FROM POWER PLANTS

by Arthur Stamoulis, Director of Government Affairs, Clean Air Council

"This is a positive first step, especially in the absence of any federal leadership on this issue. In the long run, federal and international policies will be needed to address global warming, but that's no reason for states to put off reducing the pollution within their own borders. It is good to see that Delaware is beginning to take global warming seriously. This program alone will obviously not solve the problem of global warming, but it does demonstrate that significant pollution reductions can be made without hurting the economy."
